

Part B Project Report

Student: Andrei Ilie

Coordinator: Prof. David Kay

Since the last report, I managed to finish the implementation for my project, getting all the bits running. All the results so far agree to the theoretical aspects we are aiming for. Currently, I am at a fairly advanced stage of writing the thesis.

Prof. Kay has been closely coordinating and teaching me new concepts both in our periodical meetings and by e-mail, which has been of great help. He is also providing me valuable feedback which definitely helps me increase the value of my work.

This period, I am at the stage of cycling through : writing sections in my thesis, sending it to Prof. Kay for feedback, getting back his ideas and advice on what I wrote so far and updating the thesis. The fact that I wrote down all the important results I found in the documentation stage of my project together with their sources has proved to be very helpful for the quotations.

At this point, I feel much more fluent with the methods and concepts in the field I am working on, so I believe that this project has been a great opportunity for me to get to learn useful new things and explore them in the experiments I have carried. Considering both this and the good way in which the project has been advancing so far, we have been considering ways of extending the results obtained up to this point.
